Marseilles, Sept. 12.

THE 10th instant came into this Port seven Malthe Gallies; they have been these three or four months at Sea cruising. They will Wath and Tallow, and then take their course to the Westward, to look after the Algierines that are abroad. Tangier, Aug. 15. We have Letters from Vice-Admiral Herbert, dated on board the Rupert the 10th instant off of Cape Frafalgar, in which he advises, that he had given Chace to two Algierine Prizes, the one a Dutch ship laden with Wine, and the other an English Barbadoes Man, laden with Cotton, Ginger, and Sugar; the first run ashoar under Arzilla, and was there lost; the other finding she had no other way to escape, was set on fire in the night two Leagues to the Westward of Cape Spartel, by the Turks themselves, who saved themselves in their Boat. The Moors continue still in the Field, though at a greater distance from this place, then they were when we gave you our last account.

Stetin, Sept. 11. All our Cannon and Ammunition is removed from hence to Castrin; and we now expect very suddenly to return into the hands of the Suedes. We have within these three months been forced to raise 18000 Crowns, and are afraid the Brandenburg Soldiers will require yet more of us before they leave us. The other day happened here a sad accident; A poor Soldier being thought dead, was buried, but making a hideous noise in the Grave where he lay, a Priest heard it, and caused him to be taken up; he was found to have yet life in him, but died some hours after, having beaten himself almost to pieces, and his Coffin being full of Blood.

From the French Camp before Homburg, Sept. 17. The 14 instant the Mareschal d'Humieres came with the Forces under his command before this place, he immediately summoned the Governor, who after seeing the Trenches opened, and the Batteries raised, surrendred.

Strasburg, Sept. 15. We have at the same time the account of the French having besieged the Castles of Homburg and Bitch, belonging to the Duke of Lorrain, and that they are surrendred to them.

Strasburg, Sept. 16. All the Towns of the Upper and Lower Alsace, have been obliged to take an Oath of Allegeance to the Most Christian King; the City of Slestadt did it on Saturday last, and the City of Calmar on Sunday; the latter made at first difficulty, but being threatned that if they refused, 5000 men should be sent to quarter upon them, they thought it best to comply; and thus all Alsace is become subject to France.

Hague, Sept. 16. On Thursday last the Prince of Orange went hence for Breda, to meet the Princess there in her return from Aix la Chapelle; as well as to see what forwardness the new Fortifications that are making there are in, and to take a review of the Troops in those parts. On Saturday their Highnesses came to Honslaerdike, and from thence they intend in few days to Soestdike, to pass most of the next month there. The States of Holland adjourned last Saturday till this day; It is said that the Deputies of some of the Towns have proposed the sending a Minister to the Elector of Brandenburg, to endeavor to accommodate matters with him, but that those of Amsterdam oppose it, they thinking the States have greater Pretentions upon the Elector than he upon them; and that to secure themselves against the menaces as well of Spain as of his Electoral Highness, they ought to lay hold of the opportunity which now offers to make an advantageous Alliance with France; but the rest of the Towns seem of another mind.

Orleans, Sept. 23. The Queen of Spain, who parted
